

Glenda Gilson goes Electric for Greener Ireland!

Glenda Gilson models the latest Summer Organic range from New Look while launching the new Mega City Electric Car which is available from Green Machines Terenure. Both will be featured for the first time to the public at The National Greener Ireland Expo on 19th & 20th April, Main Hall, RDS.

From fashion shows to electric cars and workshops for kids, the National Greener Ireland Expo will have something for everybody and promises to be a celebration of our dedication in securing a better future. Included in the weekend's attractions is a very impressive line-up of guest speakers, such as Don Conroy, Ian Mc Keever (7 summit climber), Claudio Baffioni who is traveling from Rome to speak about the City of Rome's approach to Green House Gas Reduction and many more. Tickets for the event are now on sale @ www.greenerireland.ie or can be purchased on the day and kids under 12 go FREE.

The idea behind the event is to educate and showcase how we can help the environment and improve on our lifestyle. This Expo will give visitors an opportunity to come face-to-face with the people behind the products and information that are available to them. Take the first step by simply attending the show and we will make a donation to Friends of the Earth in your honor. Oisín Coghlan Friends of the Earth Director said, "The NGI show is an exciting opportunity for people to explore what a greener future looks like and how to get there".

Exhibitors range from large organisations to Information bodies and SME's such as Honda Ireland, Kingspan Century, Repak, RVR Energy, Eco Baby and the Environmental Protection Agency to name but a few. There will also be an organic market area including stall holders from Organic Trust, IOFGA and Irish Farmers Market. Event Management Company TallHouse Ltd is the organiser behind the National Greener Ireland Expo. Emma Kennedy founded TallHouse Ltd in Jan 2006 and after a string of successful management projects she has now broken into the national market with The National Greener Ireland Expo. Emma Kennedy TallHouse MD said, "Whilst trying to implement greener practices in work and at home I saw an opportunity for our business as an event management company to play our part and are delighted to be managing the first National Greener Ireland Expo".
